

YOUR COOKING WORKSHOP

What to Bring & What to Expect

Whether you're coming on your own, making it a date night for two, or booking in with a group of friends — here's everything you need to show up relaxed and ready to have fun.

✓ Please bring

- ✓ A large meat knife (your own) — for the meat dishes; it keeps our kosher kitchen simple.
- ✓ A cutting board (your own) to work on.
- ✓ An apron to keep your clothes clean — cooking is hands-on.
- ✓ Closed-toe shoes (we're working near hot pans and oil).
- ✓ A hair tie if you have long hair.
- ✓ A phone or camera — your food will be very photogenic.
- ✓ An empty container (optional) for leftovers — you'll also take home a jar of kimchi you make yourself.
- ✓ Your appetite — you'll be eating a full Korean meal at the end!

✗ No need to bring

- Ingredients or any other cooking tools — everything else is provided.
- Please leave outside food and drink at home; the kitchen is kept strictly kosher.

What to wear: Comfortable clothes you don't mind getting a little flour or sauce on, plus your apron. Roll-up sleeves are your friend.

✿ What to expect

- ♥ A 3-hour hands-on session. You'll cook at your own station — solo, as a pair, or with a group — while the instructor guides you step by step.
- ♥ Total beginners welcome. If you can stir and flip, you can do this. There's no pressure to be perfect.
- ♥ Several dishes — appetizers, a salad, a main or two, and a sweet treat — then you sit down and eat everything you made.
- ♥ You'll take home a recipe booklet and your very own jar of kimchi to ferment over the next few days.
- ♥ Expect to laugh, taste as you go, and leave full and happy.

✿ Drinks & spice

- At dinner, soft drinks, beer and saké are available to purchase separately — the workshop price covers the food you make.
- We keep the spice friendly and adjustable. The cucumber salad, dak-galbi, braised tofu and your kimchi can be made as mild or as fiery as you like.
- With bibimbap, the gochujang goes on at the end to taste, so you control the heat in your own bowl. Everything else is gentle and non-spicy.

Where, when & cost

WHERE

Hashmonaim, Israel — address shared after sign-up

HOW LONG

3 hours. Arrive 5–10 min early.

PRICE

350 NIS per person. Bit, Paybox or cash.

Via our WhatsApp group — class dates & menu.

✧ Good to know — kosher & dietary

- ♥ Every dish is strictly kosher and clearly labelled Meat or Pareve. No pork, no shellfish, and meat and dairy are never mixed.
- ♥ Many dishes are pareve, and most mains have a vegetarian/pareve option — let us know in advance if you'd like the vegetarian track.
- ♥ Please tell us ahead about any allergies (nuts, sesame, gluten, eggs). Sesame and gluten feature in several recipes.
- ♥ Spice levels are gentle by default and easy to adjust to taste.

Please arrive 5–10 minutes early to settle in, wash up, and meet your station — we start on time so the doughs and marinades get their resting time.
